

TAX SPENDING PROGRAM BEING SHAPED BY FDR

Expenditures Might Be Smaller Than Expected

By Melbourne Christison
Associated Press Staff Writer
Washington, Feb. 6.—(P)—Reports that the administration's tax bill might "surprise the country" by being smaller than "expected" today emerged from the White House as a prelude to an inconclusive presidential survey of recovery expenditures and future relief needs.

In two separate conferences President Roosevelt went over the New Deal's fiscal outlook with congressional leaders and recovery lieutenants, with these developments:

Chairman Doughton (D-NC) of the House Ways and Means committee said a tax bill probably confined to raising between $450,000,000 and $500,000,000 for the new farm program would be ready the first of next week.

He expressed the personal hope on the basis of today's parity that new taxes would not be necessary to pay the bonus.

Heads of the Public Works, Works Progress and Rural Resettlement Administrations discussed their financial needs but no announcement was made of possible savings. They will meet with the president again.

Elsewhere in the Capital during a busy day of fiscal discussions there were these developments:

1—Chairman Jesse H. Jones of the Reconstruction Corporation told reporters the R. F. C. would show an excessive repayment of loans over new commitments, and added that a statement of what loan authorizations can be cancelled might be completed by tomorrow.

2—Justice Department attorneys were reported to have advised the administration that any retroactive processing taxes which might be included in a general revenue measure to finance the new farm program must be confined to the current fiscal year which began last July 1.

3—Other officials argued, however, that even if retroactive recovery of these taxes were limited to this year most of the $180,000,000 impounded under the AAA could be recovered.

Doughton and Representative Bankhead (D-Ala.), who lunched with the president, reported they had a full discussion of tax needs and possible new revenue sources.

When they emerged, Doughton said:

"I think we will surprise the country by not having to have as large a tax bill as is expected."

Crawls Two Miles Thru Snowdrifts

Mt. Pleasant, Mich., Feb. 6.—(P)—John Roberts, 34-year-old garage mechanic, saved himself from death today when his automobile stuck in a snow drift by crawling two miles to a farmhouse through deep snow.

Roberts told hospital attendants that his hands and feet froze in the sub-zero temperature while he was attempting to release the car and that he started walking through the heavy drifts toward shelter. He became so numbed he could no longer walk and crawled the remainder of the way.

Physicians said Roberts faced amputation of both feet and hands, if he lived. He was attempting to reach his home, several miles northwest of here.

Col. Frank Knox Talks Politics With Leaders

Declines Any Immediate Statement Of His Intentions

Cincinnati, Feb. 6.—(P)—Col. Frank Knox discussed the 1936 republican presidential situation today with party leaders of Ohio and Kentucky, but declined any immediate statement of his intentions.

Before leaving for the East tonight, the Chicago publisher met queries as to whether he would contest with U. S. Senator William E. Borah (R-Ida.) for the 52 delegates Ohio will send to the National Convention with the brief statement:

"I am not going to jump off the deep end. There will be no announcement today."

He termed inflation a "dread disease" in an address before the tri-state congress of Life Insurance Underwriters.

He said he favored continuing the dollar at its devalued level of 59 cents because "to begin new tinkering now, whether up or down, would only cause fresh perturbations, new uncertainties." He urged a "balanced budget."

Knox's Ohio conferees included Clarence J. Brown, the republican candidate for governor in 1934 and leader of the Knox-for-president movement in Ohio; Robert A. Taft, Cincinnati republican leader and son of the former president; Ed Schorr, state party chairman; and former Governor Myers Y. Cooper.

Present System Of P. M. Appointments Criticized By Norris

Senator Says One Word From Roosevelt Would Bring Remedy

Washington, Feb. 6.—(P)—Sharply criticizing the present system of postmaster appointments, Senator Norris (R-Neb.) declared today it would cost President Roosevelt "millions of votes" but that "one word" from the executive would bring a remedy.

The veteran independent reiterated, however, that he "supported President Roosevelt in 1932 and I intend to support him again." While not referring to James A. Farley by name, he said he thought "a man managing a campaign ought not to be Postmaster General."

Only recently, Norris, who has launched previous attacks at the post office department, was praised highly by Mr. Roosevelt, who urged voters to keep Norris in the Senate as long as he lives "whether he wants to or not."

Norris took the floor to call the present method of selecting postmasters through recommendation by members of congress "entirely wrong" and "based on hypocrisy." He spoke during consideration of the nomination of Mrs. Maude S. Yancey for postmistress at Cady, Neb. He did not oppose her confirmation, however, and she was given the post.

Asserting that "many members of the democratic party will go down to defeat because they had too many postmasters to appoint," Norris explained that Mrs. Yancey was named acting post mistress in February, 1934.

He declared that when the civil service commission conducted an examination, Mrs. Yancey did not get a grade high enough to be ranked as eligible for appointment. The top three are so ranked.

He then averred that apparently because of the "political authorities" the postoffice department got the civil service commission to hold another examination even though no charge of "irregularity" had been made.

Statement Issued By Pekin Mayor

Pekin, Ill., Feb. 6.—(P)—Mayor W. E. Schurman issued the following statement after the general strike here and had been called off by the Pekin Trade and Labor Assembly:

"My counsel joins with me in expressing appreciation of the attitude taken by the assembly committee in bringing this general strike to an end."

"I sincerely hope the unions affiliated with the assembly will cooperate in preserving law and order in this community. The action of the assembly definitely relieves the tense situation which has accompanied the general shutdown of business."

"I believe that the people of this community and the state of Illinois feel that law and order must be maintained."

INCREASE DIVIDEND

New York, Feb. 6.—(P)—Chrysler Corp. today increased its dividend to $1 a share from 75 cents paid in the previous quarter.

The corporation and its subsidiaries in 1935 earned $34,975,818, after charges, compared with 1934 earnings of $9,534,836. Last year's profits were equal to $8.07 a share compared with $2.19 in the previous year.

TEMPERATURES IN NORTHWEST HIT NEW LOWS

Willow City, N. D., Has Official Mark Of 51 Below Zero

Chicago, Feb. 6.—(P)—Snows swept over the Western Plain States today, routing sub zero cold temporarily from much of the territory of its recent conquests.

But in North Dakota, Minnesota and Iowa the Arctic weather dug in, and heavy reinforcements from the minus 56 degree polar chill of the Mackenzie basin threatened to renew the hardships of the century's most severe winter.

These new marks of its preeminence were reported from various front bound communities during the day:

The all time cold record at Kirksville Mo., was surpassed with its fifteenth day of under zero readings.

New Jersey counted its 21st successive day of subfreezing temperatures.

Minneapolis saw its 37 year old record for successive below zero temperatures smashed with a minus 23 clinching the mark for 1936 and 20 days.

Old weather marks of fifty years standing toppled at Fairmont, Minn., when it called its 20th day below zero this morning. It was 16 below there.

But that was 33 degrees warmer than Willow City, N. D., current cold spot of America with an official minus 51.

While snow fell sporadically from the Rocky Mountain slopes to the rim of Lake Michigan, the northeast saw the mercury drop from ten to twenty degrees.

The Middle States, however, quickly seized on the more temperate day for widespread assaults on drifts which have been snarling rail and highway traffic. Though some trains continued late from Montana to Illinois, Iowa saw through rail service approach normal once more.

In that state, emergency mining was ordered for Saturday-miners' holidays—to replenish depleted coal piles. Maryville, Mo., faced an acute shortage of fuel. South Dakota reported suffering already from its lack, and a hundred southern cities from Florida to Arkansas said their coal situation was serious.

Additional deaths from weather and losses from fires were reported and fatalities, ascribed to the cold wave since the first of the year, were estimated at nearly 500.

Unemployment In U. S. Estimated At 11,401,000

American Federation Of Labor Looks At Future With Pessimism

Washington, D. C., Feb. 6.—(P)—The American Federation of Labor tonight estimated December unemployment at 11,401,000 and looked at the future with pessimism.

"Although the New Year has opened with an unemployment situation more encouraging on the whole than any since the NRA program, there is still no prospect of work for more than a mere handful of the 11,400,000 unemployed," said William Green, the federation president.

"We may expect the spring pick up in industry this year to create at least temporary jobs for a small portion of the unemployed but the vast majority have no assurance of anything but continued joblessness and dependence on relief and government work projects."

The federation's figures gave for comparison with the December total, 11,672,000 unemployed in November, 11,449,000 in October, 11,789,000 in September and 12,219,000 in August. The peak month of the last three years was 15,653,000 in March, 1933.

Average unemployment for 1935 was set at 12,208,000 compared with 12,264,000 in 1934, 13,723,000 in 1933, 13,182,000 in 1932, 8,738,000 in 1931, 4,770,000 in 1930 and 1,864,000 in the boom year of 1929.

"If we count on improving business alone to put the unemployed to work, we may expect little improvement in this situation," Green said in December, 1935, business activity was 21 per cent above December 1934, but employment was only four per cent higher.

"America faces the stubborn fact that unemployment will always be with us unless we insist on finding jobs for these millions in industry, where they can create the wealth for their support," he said.

"Are we willing to accept permanent unemployment?"

CASE TO JURY

Marion, Ill., Feb. 6.—(P)—The Coy Davis murder case went to a jury late today while State's Attorney Charles Murray pondered perjury charges against prosecution witnesses whose testimony did not coincide with that given at an inquest.

The inquest brought assertions that Davis shot and killed Ray Gresham, a laundry truck driver, without provocation. Trial testimony was that Davis shot after Gresham struck him.

New And Different Picture Sketched At Liggett Trial

State Evidence Against Former Bootlegger Contradicted

Minneapolis, Feb. 6.—(P)—Defense witnesses sketched a new and different picture today of Mrs. Walter Liggett's words and actions immediately after her publisher-husband was slain Dec. 9 by a machine gunner.

Contradicting state evidence against Isadore (Kid Cann) Blumenfeld, former bootlegger, accused of murdering Liggett, Mrs. Betty Paymar testified on the district court witness stand the killer's automobile was a "light colored coupe." Mrs. Paymar lives in a nearby apartment house near the Liggett home.

She saw the vehicle leave the alley near Liggett's home, she added, then went to the body, over which Mrs. Liggett was bending.

"She was saying endearing words to him," Mrs. Paymar testified. "Some one in the crowd asked her who shot him and she said 'how should I know? I was looking out of the window at the time.'"

Mrs. Liggett has denied making these statements and also has described the car as either a sedan or coach, dark colored. She has claimed she immediately named Kid Cann as the slayer.

Proceedings were delayed while the counsel argued admissibility of evidence from Meyer Shulberg, president of the Chesapeake Brands, Inc., liquor concern, of which the Kid is a salesman.

Lives 22 Years In Darkened Room Of Mountain Cabin

Thirty Three Year Old Woman Is Rescued By State Trooper

McKendree, W. Va., Feb. 6.—(P)—A shy little woman smiled her thanks for food at a state hospital today, but refused to talk about reports she had lived 22 of her 33 years in the darkened room of a mountain cabin—imprisoned by her mother.

Physicians described her as immature, saying:

"She could be mistaken for a child."

The woman, Dama Coleman, ate ravenously of food provided after State Trooper O. R. Kincaid took her to the hospital.

Kincaid said he battered down the door of the shack and took the woman from the home of Mrs. Minnie Coleman, her 62-year-old mother.

The mother, who will be arraigned on a lunacy charge, said she kept the daughter in her room because of throat trouble.

Governor H. G. Kump ordered investigation after receiving word from neighbors that they believed the woman was held prisoner. They said they last saw her when she was 10 or 11, but had heard her voice frequently.

Dr. R. D. Hatfield said the daughter apparently is mentally normal, but:

"She is in bad physical condition, mostly from malnutrition. She does not weigh over 60 pounds.

"Her eyes are bad, and she can't see in the light."

"When we try to find out how long she has been confined in the room, she shuts up like a clam, will say nothing."

Dr. J. N. Reeves, superintendent of the hospital, said Mrs. Coleman placed her daughter's age at 32, but he added:

"She looks at least 10 or 15 younger because of her immaturity. She does have a few grey hairs. Otherwise, she would be mistaken for a child."

"Her voice is indistinct, not particularly low, but jumbled as though from disuse. She is shy, but responds to kindness."

L. C. Patterson, a brother of Mrs. Coleman, said he would post bond for her. He minimized the police report of the woman's imprisonment, saying:

"It couldn't have been that long. My sister's husband died only two or three years ago; he lived with them until he died."

The cabin in which the woman was found is in an isolated section of Fayette county, about 50 miles from the state capital at Charleston.

MUST ACCEPT JOBS

Chicago, Feb. 6.—(P)—Relief clients who refuse WPA jobs are to be given two weeks' grace and then cut off the relief rolls, under instructions issued today by Leo M. Lyons, executive secretary of the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission.

"If it is determined that the client is definitely at fault, and will not reconsider, the case should be closed immediately," his bulletin said.

DOCTOR BEATS STORK

Stacy, Mont., Feb. 6.—(P)—Dr. Marvin Amick "shoved" his automobile most of the 30 miles to beat the stork in a race through a blinding snowstorm.

En route from Broadus, in southeastern Montana, his car was stuck in deep snow drifts every few hundred feet. But the physician reached Stacy in time to deliver an eleven-pound son to Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Pearson.

SENATE DEBATES FARM MEASURE; GOP PROTESTS

Constitutionality Of Measure Challenged By Senators

Washington, Feb. 6.—(P)—The much-revised administration soil conservation-subsidy bill made its senate debut today, beset by bi-partisan challenges as to its constitutionality, but defended by many Democrats and a Republican Independent.

Termed by opposition senators a "mere subterfuge" to circumvent supreme court restrictions in the AAA decision and possibly "socialistic," the Smith (D.S.C.) bill was upheld by Democratic members of the agriculture committee as an "honest effort" to help the agrarian population in a legal way.

"It would provide a dual system of federal aid to individuals or states to subsidize 'soil conservation' through retirement of land from commercial crop production."

A similar bill was denounced in a minority report filed in the house by Rep. Boileau (Prog. Wis.) as "broad enough to give the secretary of agriculture such power as might be needed to control production."

Rep. Hope (R. Kas.) in a lengthy floor speech, expounded the theory of his proposal to give farmers "tariff equalization" benefits — a measure whose principle has been advocated by Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas, a Republican presidential possibility.

As Democratic leaders pressed for a senate vote on the AAA-substitute before the week-end adjournment, time was taken to complete congressional action on the brief bill repealing the three AAA auxiliary laws—the Bankhead cotton, Kerr-Smith tobacco and potato control acts. (These statutes imposed taxes to help enforce production control attempted by AAA.)

President Roosevelt had requested "prompt repeal" of these measures since the entire adjustment program had been upset by the supreme court. Senate concurrence in a house amendment providing for cancellation of taxes assessed but not collected under the compulsory cotton act sent the repealer to the white house.

League President Takes Issue With Morgan Definition

Declares Keeping Maid "Hasn't Anything To Do With Leisure"

By Ruth Cowan
Associated Press Staff Writer
Chicago, Feb. 6.—(P)—Mrs. Wilbur Fribley of Chicago, president of the Housewives League of America, tonight took issue with J. P. Morgan's definition of the leisure class as families "who can afford a maid."

"Keeping a maid hasn't anything to do with leisure—not in this modern age," said Mrs. Fribley, discussing a report of the banker's leisure class theory given to the Senate Minutes Investigating Committee.

"Men who take that attitude—and most men do—date themselves as thinking of modern housekeeping as household engineering, she called it, in terms of the housewife's age, that's what Mr. Morgan's doing."

"Does the woman active in business or social service or as a lawyer, doctor, artist, who employs a housekeeper necessarily belong in the leisure class?"

"Obviously no more so than the man office head who employs a stenographer. The fact a man has to employ a stenographer and a housewife a maid generally indicates in this modern age only that they are busy folks."

Nor, she contended, has the employment of a maid or a stenographer necessarily related to wealth.

C. Wayland Brooks Speaks To Women

Chicago, Feb. 6.—(P)—C. Wayland Brooks, candidate for the republican nomination for governor, told the state republican women's club today that "it is up to the women to save the democratic form of government."

He appealed to women to restore a government "by the people" instead of "by a man."

"Women again must take a prominent part in political life if democracy would be preserved in their own country," Brooks said. He declared that under the guise of "the more abundant life and social security, the power and the lives of individuals have been turned to a central one man government."

BANKER DIES

Moline, Ill., Feb. 6.—(P)—A. T. Foster, vice president of the Moline National bank and a former postmaster, died at 2 p. m. today at his home of bronchial pneumonia. He had been active in business and civic affairs here for a number of years. He came to Moline to become city editor of the Dispatch in 1895.

Pekin Trades and Labor Assembly Ends General Strike After 22 Hours

By William J. Conway

Pekin, Ill., Feb. 6.—(P)—Life suddenly surged back to normal in this strike torn community today after a dramatic sequence of events terminated the city wide shutdown enforced by organized labor.

The Trades and Labor Assembly—rulers of a city of 17,000 persons for 22 hours—ended the paralyzing general holiday they had proclaimed in an effort to force the dismissal of Chief of Police Harry Donahue.

Their action followed swiftly upon the adoption of aggressive tactics by the towns business leaders. Two hundred of them banded together in a united front and announced they would defy the unionists by re-opening their establishments tomorrow. A hurried conference of labor chiefs was called. It ended in their formal announcement at 1:15 p. m. that the widespread moratorium on virtually all phases of commercial activity had been lifted.

"This is a clear cut victory for the forces that have been trying to preserve order," declared Mayor W. E. Schurman. "It should preclude any attempt at similar movements in other cities."

The welcome word "the holiday is over" swept with amazing speed thru Pekin. Restaurants, stores, barber shops, groceries, markets, movie houses, beauty parlors, taverns, and other places flung open doors that had closed at 3 p. m. Wednesday when groups of strikers warned proprietors to "close-up or else."

Vehicles bearing food and fuel moved through the streets. Beer trucks trundled by. Coal and provender supplies which had dwindled toward the privation line were quickly replenished. The transient population sat down again to substantial fare.

Recession of the stand taken by labor chiefs followed a conference with William Schoenberg, an American Federation of Labor organizer from Chicago. They stated they had terminated the holiday after they had been informed by state labor director, Martin Durkin, that the American Distillery company had agreed to keep its plant shut down and to continue parleys with union representatives with the intent of settling a strike at that plant.

The strike started there Jan. 19 when 100 union workers walked out. It closed Jan. 22. An attempt to reopen it last Monday precipitated clashes between officers and pickets. A strikers' committee, Schoenberg, Durkin, Federal Conciliator J. E. O'Connor, L. C. Bjork, National Relations Board Examiner, and Dr. George Michell, spokesman for the company, resumed efforts to reach an agreement at Peoria.

But the issue prompting the general holiday remained unsettled. That was labor's insistence that Chief Donahue be discharged because he assertedly fired tear gas at pickets at the distillery. The assembly warned they would not retreat from their demands that he be dismissed.

Mayor Schurman refused to oust former prize fighter Donahue because "he epitomizes law and order."

John L. Lewis' Salary Increased To $25,000 Year

Raise Makes Miners' Head Highest Paid Labor Leader

By Joseph L. Miller

Associated Press Staff Writer
Washington, Feb. 6.—(P)—Over the protest of a large block of delegates, the United Mine Workers convention today increased the salary of John L. Lewis from $12,000 to $25,000 a year.

The raise makes the miners' president one of the highest-paid labor leaders in the country. While no absolute check was available here, labor men said they thought no other union president is paid more than $20,000 a year and expenses.

The miners also voted to extend their membership to "coal processing plants." Observers felt this move may have important repercussions in the fight between craft and industrial unionists, now threatening to split the American Federation of Labor, should the miners attempt to organize skilled craftsmen in by-product coke plants.

Lewis has been driving for the organization of labor by industries; the American Federation of Labor contends for organization by the union crafts in an industry.

Patrick Pagan, western Pennsylvania district president, was acting chairman of the convention when the constitution committee headed by Van A. Bittner, southern West Virginia president, proposed these salary increases in addition to Lewis:

Philip Murray, vice-president, and Thomas Kennedy, secretary-treasurer from $9,000 to $18,000 each; Ellis Searles, editor of the Miners' Journal, from $4,000 to $7,000; executive board members, from $300 to $500 a month, and convention delegates from $10.50 to $12.50 a day.

Planes Collide; 3 Dead; Many Hurt

Munich, Germany, Feb. 6.—(P)—Two airplanes rammed each other 4,000 feet over Munich today, one falling into the Neuhaustrasse, which is one of the city's leading business streets. The four occupants of the planes escaped alive, but three pedestrians were killed.

The plane which fell in the street knocked down the facade of a building, killing a woman and two others, and injuring several pedestrians.

Street car wires were broken, causing a short circuit which tied up one-fourth of the city. A store caught fire and was badly burned.

The pilot and mechanic of one plane were hurt, but the two occupants of the other ship were uninjured. All four "bailed out" with parachutes.

The second plane fell in the suburb of Schwabing, an artist colony.

Small Town Culture

"Small towns have culture often in greater degree relatively than any city. There are college towns in the Mississippi Valley—Oberlin, Marietta, Jacksonville, Galesburg, to name but a few—with a high I. Q."

This paragraph appears in an article written by Earnest Elmo Calkins, and published in the February "Atlantic Monthly." The article is entitled, "Small Towns," and is a defense of the community of lesser population and of those who have chosen to remain in it and do their life work.

The writer refers much to towns in the Middle West. He takes up the various advantages of the small town, the friendly atmosphere, the fact that its citizens live as modernly and as comfortably as those in the large city, its neighborliness and inclination to emphasize the human side of life. In discussing the culture of the small town, he refers to our own city as an example of the high degree of intelligence which prevails in small college towns.

Although Mr. Calkins does not explain it, the secret of this "high I. Q." as he calls it, lies in the fact that the history of the college is largely the history of the city where it is located. A high percentage of local citizens are graduates of the home institutions. Many who have come here to attend college have remained to live and work in the community.

To be sure, a larger number of graduates return to their own towns or seek work in other places. But their numbers in any one community are not great enough to influence greatly its cultural life. The graduates remaining here, while less in numbers than those going elsewhere, do form a large proportion of the town's population and have become its civic leaders.

Mr. Calkins points out that many men who have left small towns to gain success in large cities spend their leisure hours in small places within commuting distance of their work, or keep up farms fifty to a hundred miles away, where they may spend week-ends close to the soil. They retain memories of their boyhood homes, and if they have acquired success, they will spend small fortunes to surround themselves as much as possible with rural conditions.

Mr. Calkins appears to argue that if life in the small town is as pleasant as these rich men believe, why leave it? He cites examples of the men who have chosen the small town as a place to live and work, but who have none of the proverbial "hick" characteristics. They are as well-groomed as their city friends, and their manners and culture are just as perfect and genuine.

Guard Against Fire

While disastrous fires have occurred in other communities during the long cold spell, Jacksonville has been unusually fortunate. There have been few alarms for the firemen to answer and no big fires. That is a most satisfactory record for any city.

Periodic inspections are made by members of the department in the business district. Proprietors of business places and home dwellers are asked to guard against fire hazards in their stores and residences. The visit of a fire inspector is not to be dreaded; he comes as a friend to advise if any precautions are needed to save the place from the menace of fire.

A destructive blaze in the dead of winter, with temperatures below zero, is a serious matter. It is difficult to fight when water freezes the moment it touches the building, and when even the fire nozzles freeze in the bitter weather. It is all the more essential that every means be used to prevent fires.

Piles of inflammable rubbish should not be kept near hot furnaces. Hot ashes should be kept segregated from waste paper and other inflammable material, and should not be put into wooden containers or pasteboard boxes. Fires should be carefully watched and tended. Wooden parts of the building near the furnace should be protected from the unusual heat. There are dozens of ways that property owners may co-operate to prevent fires.

Miss Gladys Ward of U. of I. Speaks to Women on Modern Kitchens

White Hall—A county meeting of the Greene County Home Bureau was held in the library Tuesday afternoon but because of the weather conditions there was a small attendance. Miss Gladys J. Ward from the University of Illinois extension service in Agriculture and Home Economics was the speaker and her topic was "Convenient Kitchens." Miss Ward will return in March and May and give practical demonstrations in the homes to help those desiring such aid to plan improvements in their kitchens for little or no expenditure of money. She used numerous stereopticon slides to demonstrate her lecture. She expected to hold a similar meeting in Carrollton Wednesday.

At Masonic Meeting Grand Lecturer H. B. Anderson and Dr. W. H. Garrison went to Beardstown Tuesday to attend a state school for Masonic instruction. There were several grand lecturers and grand examiners present. MUTINY ON THE BOUNTIES

Behind The Scenes In Washington

By RODNEY DUTCHER
(Journal-Courier Washington Correspondent)

Washington—Washington lives from one U. S. Supreme Court decision to the next.

The court and the Constitution are on every mind and every tongue. Much of the talking is done in whispers. Most persons here sense a dull, lethargic atmosphere which doubtless comes from the general belief that the court will go right on killing legislation until there is next to nothing left of the New Deal.

Anti-New Dealers are tensely alert for every possible political advantage. Old men mumble to their wives at night. Government employees go around asking one another, "Are you unconstitutional yet?" The whole tempo of the Capital has slowed down.

Little Hope Remains
In the White House, Roosevelt discusses the court and the Constitution with his advisers and many visitors, again and again. He has little hope that much but fragments will be left of the New Deal.

His congressional leaders have told him that any immediate attempt to pass legislation curbing the courts would be too great a risk. He just waits, while many of his supporters take occasional cracks at the court and strain their ears for the popular reaction.

Everybody agrees that popular reverence for the court tradition of infallibility will die hard, if ever.

New Deal Again Is F. R. Wins
Out of all the huffing and buzzing and plotting some certain fundamental implications which are now thoroughly appreciated by both sides, but which thus far have been little publicized.

If Roosevelt is re-elected, the nation is likely to see a "second New Deal."

In other words, as some of the New Dealers already are predicting, the legislation killed by the court—or laws of the same type—may be enacted all over again in Roosevelt's second term, with the likelihood that nearly all of them would be validated by the court.

Of course the idea is that Roosevelt might get the opportunity of appointing two new justices of liberal trend. Because the average age of justices is 71, and for other reasons, it is generally believed F. D. R. will have such a chance to "re-make" the court if he stays in the White House.

Conservative Justice Van Devanter's health is none too good and it is rumored that he—as well as Conservative Justice McReynolds—would have retired ere this if he could have been sure of being replaced by a conservative.

Whether either would try to stick another four years after inauguration in January, 1937, is questionable.

It Isn't "Packing"
Certain Liberty League orators already have warned the voters that Roosevelt will "pack" the court if he gets back in. Any such choice of words is also questionable.

Presidents have the constitutional prerogative of appointing supreme court justices. If the voters are afraid of the type of jurists Roosevelt will name if he gets the chance, they can head him off next November.

The voters might as well know that Roosevelt probably will appoint liberals of the Brandeis-Stone-Cardozo type if he can and the Liberty League might as well prepare to pipe down in case it can't beat him this year.

The quiet aspect of it all is that the New Deal, if the voters endorse it, may have to start all over again.

Meanwhile, as Al Smith said, "Here we are!"

LETTER FROM NORTH DAKOTA DESCRIBES SUB-ZERO CLIMATE

Thirty to Forty Below at Kempton. H. E. Osborne Says in Letter to Morgan County Relatives

Oak Hill—In a recent letter received by relatives here, H. E. Osborne, of Kempton, North Dakota, says that they have had the coldest January in 16 years. It was from 30 to 40 below zero for a week, and plenty cold the rest of the time. It was 13 below zero on the morning of January 25 which was the warmest morning for over 2 weeks.

There had been only two or three days that cars did not travel on the main highway. The side roads have been blocked most all winter. Mr. Osborne said.

Howard Summers and wife of Woodson were Sunday dinner guests in the home of Francis Brickey and family.

Miss Lucille Brickey spent one night recently with Miss Alberta Spencer.

William Walker called on J. T. Osborne one afternoon recently.

A large hog shed on the John Fitzsimmons farm, west of Murrayville, caught fire and burned down one night last week.

Mrs. Roy Thady spent the past week with relatives in Jacksonville.

The ground hog did not see its shadow here on Sunday, February 2, as the sun did not shine.

Francis Brickey and family were Jacksonville callers Saturday.

Sunday afternoon visitors at the home of J. I. Osborne, wife and daughter, were William H. Osborne, wife, daughter, Pauline, sons, James, Bennie and Billie; Mrs. Howard Summers, Mrs. Francis Brickey and daughter Dorothy.

J. L. Thady and wife and Roy Thady and family were visitors one evening recently in the home of the former's daughter, Mrs. Francis Brickey and family.

Propaganda Has Been Responsible For Much Warfare

Col. Sidney Story in Talk to Kiwanis Club Says That Mussolini is O.K.

Political intrigues and propaganda have been responsible for the entry of the United States in wars of the past and this same propaganda is now being carried on to draw this country into another conflict, declared Col. Sidney Story, Chicago, who spoke at the Thursday meeting of the local Kiwanis club. Colonel Story is director of the Great Lakes United States Merchant Marine League and an advocate of the Great Lakes to the Gulf Waterway.

Colonel Story was for many years engaged in the shipping business and he personally observed the efforts made by foreign interests to hinder the operation of United States ships. He said the construction of thousands of wooden boats in this country during the World War—the building of ships that were never used—was the result of scheming by interests abroad who sought to keep America off the seas after the war.

Propaganda prior to the World War led to pacifism, which found the United States unprepared for the great war when it came. Censorship was used by European nations as it is now being used. News messages sent to South America by the United States were censored in London.

And during the war this ruthless propaganda was carried on the papers being filled with atrocities performed by the Germans. At the conference of Versailles there was a demand to bring the kaiser before the bar because of the terrible crimes alleged to have been committed by his armies. A committee investigated and found that the stories of butchered babies and other atrocious acts were groundless.

Today, said Colonel Story, we pick up the stories and read of the bombing of hospitals in Ethiopia, and strange to say, they are usually American hospitals. One day we read of the massacre of Italians and the next we read of their advances, and we see efforts being made to bring about another world war.

Colonel Story expressed the opinion that many of his audience would not agree with him but he does not look upon the Italian dictator as a man drunk with power, but defended Mussolini as being the one person who stopped Communism in Europe and possibly in the world.

ICE ON PARK LAKE 20 INCHES THICK
Freezes 8 to 10 Inches When Air Holes are Cut

How thick is the ice? is a question that has been asked here frequently during the last few days.

It may best be answered by measurements taken on Morgan lake at Nichols park. The ice there is between 18 and 20 inches thick, and most of it is covered by several inches of snow.

Trucks have been run over the ice on the park lake. Teams of horses have crossed it during the past week with as much safety as if they were on a pavement.

Each morning workmen at the park cut a hole in the ice for the benefit of the swans. In a 24 hour period the ice has been freezing to a thickness of between 8 and 10 inches.

Figures on the depth of the freeze in the ground vary considerably, but several instances of frozen ground two feet down have been reported.

DR. PONTIUS WRITES OF PLEASANT CLIME

Letters received from Rev. M. L. Pontius, who is seeking renewed health at Sarasota, Fla., indicate that the frigid temperatures prevailing here have hardly penetrated to that sunny domain. Dr. Pontius writes that the mercury seldom falls to the freezing point.

But temperatures of 80 degrees in the hottest part of the day are recorded. Dr. Pontius reports seeing Mr. and Mrs. Walter Crawford at Sarasota during the past week. He expects to remain in the southern resort for at least another week.

THE SCREEN REPORTER
NOW PLAYING
WHAT - WHEN - WHERE

FOX ILLINOIS—Last times today. William Powell in "RENDEZVOUS."

FOX MAJESTIC—Today and Saturday. John Wayne in "WESTWARD HO," also Chapter No. 2, "Call of The Savages."

FOX ILLINOIS—Saturday only. Jackie Cooper in "TOUGH GUY."

WESTWARD HO
John Wayne, long noted for his daring feats on the screen, has been hiding his light under a bushel. In "Westward Ho," which opens today at the FOX MAJESTIC John adds another accomplishment to his historic repertoire.

Though movie fans little suspected it, Wayne possesses a fine voice and in "Westward Ho," he sings for the first time in a picture.

Although many say any man would want to sing to lovely Stella Marmora, John Wayne had the advantage of singing a brand new song that has such beautiful melody and romantic lyrics, that Miss Marmora couldn't help liking it. This new song is called "The Girl I Loved Long Ago" and was written by R. N. Bradbury, the director of "Westward Ho."

There are two other songs in this story of the begining of the early pioneers from East to West. The theme song is called "Westward Ho" and is sung in the picture by the Wranglers, a quartet that has gained national fame on the radio.

The other is "The Vigilante," a stirring melody which is sung by Wayne and the band of riders whom he leads.

John Wayne leads his troupe of "Wranglers" against the desperadoes in "Westward Ho," the wagon trains of the advancing pioneers. The fifty men, all mounted on white horses, present a stirring picture as they gallop across the Western plains. Wayne has a double reason for his campaign against the lawless bandits. In addition to his love for law and order, John seeks the desperado who brutally slew his parents and kidnapped his younger brother.

Other members of the excellent cast of "Westward Ho" in addition to John Wayne and Stella Marmora are Frank McEllynn, Jr., James Farley, Yakima Canutt.

KIDDIES AMATEUR CONTEST
Saturday matinee and night, the FOX Theaters in will present another all Kiddies Amateur show.

Ten acts will be presented and we promise you some real entertainment. On the screen Jackie Cooper will be seen in "THE TOUGH GUY." It's a story of a boy who hitch hiked his way into a most astounding adventure.

CARNIVAL WEEK
It starts next Sunday when all Fox Theaters in the Middle-West will join in providing their patrons with the finest mid-season entertainment obtainable. One of the big features of the week to be shown at the FOX ILLINOIS will be "TALE OF TWO CITIES."

"With high thrill, heroic terror and beauty has Charles Dickens' 'A Tale of Two Cities' been brought to the screen to bid for the highest artistic and box office honors. Altogether one of the finest expressions of screen and profoundly emotional incentives yet offered. Ronald Coleman gives a great performance, the finest he has ever done, and one of the greatest of the year's impersonations. Feel of being historically authentic, and production magnitude gives it an epic sweep."

"A Tale of Two Cities," which you have been reading about in this column for the past week, is coming to the FOX ILLINOIS theatre next Sunday for 3 days.

Passes today at Fox Illinois for Chas. H. Lewis R. R. 6, Jacksonville. At Fox Majestic for S. A. Ashby, 754 W. Lafayette Avenue.

Get Enough Beauty Rest

By Alicia Hart
NEA Service Staff Writer

No one but yourself can make a list rule about the number of hours you need to sleep each night. Some can get along happily on six, or even five. Others—and this applies to the majority of adults—need about eight. The problem is indeed an individual one and only by the time-old trial and error method can you find out.

However, one general rule we can make, and this is that each person should figure out what rest she needs nightly, then stick by her rules. If she wants to look pretty and fresh through the years, she MUST do it.

How can you tell when you're getting adequate and proper rest? Well, just by the way you feel immediately after you've dressed and eaten breakfast. And by the way you feel again about four in the afternoon.

You may be sleepy when you wake up to turn off the alarm, but you shouldn't be just plain tired, weary in every muscle. By the time you have bathed, dressed and had breakfast, even the sleepy feeling should disappear. If it doesn't and you stumble around dully and half-heartedly until about eleven o'clock, you'd better try to get a little more sleep each night. If this doesn't help, see your doctor. Also, check up on your bed and the ventilation in your room.

Perhaps your mattress is too soft or too hard. Maybe you need a smaller or a larger pillow or none at all. It's possible that you don't get enough fresh air in your room. Perhaps you should drink a glass of milk before you go to bed. Maybe you never should eat or drink immediately before retiring.

Anyway, whatever you do, don't go on sleeping restlessly or too little. It is important to your health, charm and beauty that you humor and pamper yourself to the extent of getting proper rest.

COCOANUT RATES HIGH IN NOURISHMENT VALUE

SCIENTISTS LAUD IT FOR VITAMIN B

BY MARY E. DAGUE
NEA Service Staff Writer

The busy scientific delvers into foods (sometimes I think they take a bit of the joy out of life) tell us that one cup of fresh shredded coconut weighing about three ounces contains 20 calories of protein, 44 of fat and 101 of carbohydrates, making a total of 535 calories, also that it is a good source of vitamin B.

So we must remember that when we add a cup of fresh coconut to a Washington cream pie, we add nourishment and calories.

A cup of shredded coconut added to your favorite gingerbread recipe is a nice innovation.

Southern cooks sprinkle it on unsliced apple pie before baking. They combine sliced oranges, pineapple cubes and shredded coconut to make a simple and delicious dessert.

Cocoanut Pudding

This pudding uses the milk of fresh coconut.

One and one-half cups shredded fresh coconut, 1 cup bread crumbs, 1 cup coconut milk, 2-4 cup sugar, 1-3 cup melted butter, 3 egg yolks, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Beat yolks of eggs until very light with sugar. Beat in butter and add bread crumbs, coconut, vanilla and milk of coconut. Pour into a buttered baking dish, place in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for one hour. Cover with a meringue made with the whites of eggs beaten until stiff with six tablespoons sugar. Bake eight minutes in a slow oven to puff and color the meringue.

Cocoanut Salad

One-half fresh coconut, 2 tart apples, 1 cup diced celery, 2 sweet green peppers, 4 tablespoons French dressing, 4 tablespoons mayonnaise, 2 tablespoons whipped cream, shredded leaf lettuce.

Grate coconut. Pare and dice apples, dropping at once in French dressing. Remove seeds and white pith from peppers and shred flesh. Add pepper, celery and coconut to apples in French dressing and let stand covered on ice for one hour.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Halves of grapefruit, country sausage, buckwheat cakes, syrup, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON: Baked macaroni-oysters-mushrooms, pumpernickle, coconut salad, chocolate Indians, milk tea.

DINNER: Baked calves hearts, mashed white turnips, baked beets in orange sauce, pineapple and cheese salad, lemon sponge pie, milk, coffee.

When ready to serve, drain and arrange on a bed of lettuce. Mix whipped cream and mayonnaise and pile lightly over salad before serving.

This is a delicious salad to serve with baked macaroni, oysters and mushrooms.

Baked Macaroni, Oysters and Mushrooms

One cup macaroni, 1 pound mushrooms, 1 pint oysters, 2 cups milk, 3 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon mustard, 1 teaspoon celery salt, 1 teaspoon pepper, few drops tabasco sauce, 2 tablespoons grated cheese.

Cook macaroni in boiling salted water until tender. Drain and blanch. Clean mushrooms and saute in 1 table-

Driving Conditions Remain Difficult

Roads Over State Still Icy and Dangerous Curves, Hills are Cinderead

The Jacksonville Auto club reports that Central and Northern Illinois and Indiana roads are again covered with ice and snow and driving conditions are only slightly better than Wednesday. The Illinois State highway department has cinderead some of the hazards. Trucks and buses with chains have worn the ice off in places and another day or two of good weather should eliminate most of the danger.

Northern and Western Illinois had more snow than direct and driving conditions are somewhat better. In southern Illinois the roads are in good condition.

Heavy rains in the southern states have caused some trouble on highways on account of flood waters. Those planning trips into Florida, New Orleans and other southern points should make frequent inquiry enroute.

Several inches of snow also fell in Iowa, Minnesota and other northern sections.

Southern Missouri, Oklahoma and Arkansas roads are in good condition. The preferred route to Hot Springs is via Cape Girardeau, West Memphis and Little Rock. This is an all paved route. Other shorter routes are not advisable at this time.

The best route to Florida at the present time is still via Panama, Effingham, Olney, Evansville, Nashville, Birmingham, Montgomery and Tallahassee. Roads all paved.

California traffic is being routed almost exclusively over the southern route through either Arkansas or Oklahoma, and thence through El Paso and Tucson or Phoenix, Arizona. Roads all in good condition, with only a small amount of construction in Texas.

Reports At Meeting Wednesday Night Show January Goal Was Reached

The regular meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary was held at the Legion Home Wednesday evening. An interesting report was made by Mrs. D. C. Livengood. Mrs. Harold Wright, membership chairman, reported that the 100% goal set for January 20th has been reached by the unit.

The 66 Auxiliary and Legion members present at the potluck supper held at the Legion Home January 31st enjoyed such a good time that they wanted to have many more of these joint social evenings. President Mrs. T. F. Craver, appointed a committee composed of Mrs. Claude Gustine, Mrs. Wilbur Rogers and Mrs. Ray Wilkinson to assist Mrs. J. C. Colton, social chairman, with one of these social evenings sometime in the latter part of February—the exact date to be named later.

It was announced that the Auxiliary would have a card party at the American Legion Home soon. The chairman for this card party are Mrs. Reath Jennings and Mrs. E. M. Murphy. Sub-chairmen are as follows: For Pinochle, Mrs. F. W. Brockhouse; for Euchre and Five Hundred, Mrs. Wm. Doolin; for Contract Bridge, Mrs. D. C. Livengood; for Auction Bridge, Mrs. Mabel Dunavan.

High Court Rules Louis Hauck Must Serve Prison Term

Supreme Court Refuses to Grant New Hearing of Embezzlement Case

The Illinois supreme court yesterday denied a rehearing of its affirmation of the Morgan county circuit court conviction of Louis P. Hauck of this city on embezzlement charges. Hauck already is under sentence to the penitentiary and has been at liberty under bond while the case was carried to the supreme court.

The crime of which Hauck was convicted involved the embezzlement of funds while he was serving as assistant to the city treasurer. A number of months ago Hauck made restitution to the City of Jacksonville of a large sum of money said to have been taken.

The supreme court has fixed Feb. 14 for hearing on the American Bankers Insurance Company of Jacksonville suit against Ernest Palmer, state insurance director, to force him to recognize voluntary liens on policies as reserve assets.

THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE FOR NATURAL "BULK"

Needed to Correct Constipation*

Most people recognize the seriousness of constipation. But too often they dose themselves with strong cathartics that often actually lead to chronic constipation.

The natural way to check common constipation is to correct the condition which causes it—usually, insufficient "bulk" in meals.

How can you get "bulk"? Fruits and vegetables have some. Bran has more. The most popular product of this kind is Kellogg's All-Bran.

The "bulk" in All-Bran is gentle in action. All-Bran also supplies vitamin B and iron.

This delicious cereal is a wholesome food. Serve All-Bran regularly for regularity, with milk or cream—or use in cooking.

Two tablespoonsful of All-Bran daily will usually correct constipation due to insufficient "bulk." If not relieved, see your doctor.

All-Bran gives you gentle internal exercise. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Col. Sidney Story Advocates League Of Two Americas

Points to Value of Union of North and South to Preserve Peace

Col. Sidney Story of Chicago urged the adoption of a permanent Pan-American league as a method of preserving peace, in a lecture to the Illinois College student body yesterday.

"Europe and Asia are in a turmoil," Col. Story stated. "They would like to have our man power and our boys and our money over there. But we have the Atlantic on one side and the Pacific on the other, so let us stay in our own hemisphere."

The speaker went on to trace the propaganda and press censorship that was in effect earlier in the century in an effort by the European powers to prevent a union between South and North America. "When I was in England during the World War and after," Col. Story said, "the cry was 'Let's drive the Yankees out of South America!'"

The speaker continued with a comparison of the forms of government in North and South America and pointed out that the Republican system predominated. He went on to show that in the Americas, unlike Europe, there was not the thousand years of hatred and jealousy. He said that the League of Nations was a Pandora box because of the hatred and jealousy in Europe. The Pan-American reciprocity league would not face any of these troubles and would do more to promote peace on the western hemisphere and throughout the world than any other organization.

In closing the speaker said, "Let us create a Pan-American Tribunal where each nation may be represented for the settlement of disputes with justice as a criterion."

J. H. S. DRAMATIC CLUB MEMBERS GIVE ONE ACT COMEDY

"The Leap Year Bride," a one act

comedy by Leslie Hickson concerning the proposal of an office girl to her boss, was very cleverly presented yesterday afternoon at the high school by the Sock and Buskin players of the J. H. S. dramatic club. Frances Walls, as Sally Rand, the office girl who takes advantage of the leap year privilege of the fair sex, handled her part in an exceedingly attractive manner. John Hopper, as the bashful boss to whom Sally proposes, by leaving a letter on his desk, played that rather difficult part with understanding and was responsible for much of the humor of the piece in his hesitant and flustered conversation with Sally. Alfred Bunn, the love-sick and silly, young office worker who thinks that Sally is trying to propose to him, was played by Pete Riggs. Riggs injected all of the fun possible into his characterization and kept the students in a hilarious humor throughout the entire production. He received a healthy round of applause at his first entrance. Before the play, Ned Donahoe, of Illinois College, read a play entitled "A Southern Silhouette." This was very much enjoyed. Doris Johnston gave a tap dance and was called back for an encore. The proceeds of the program will go to the student aid fund.

Wisconsin Trainer Claims Coach Spears Told Him to Give Grid Players Liquor

Madison, Wis. Feb. 6.—(AP)—William Gilly Fallon, University of Wisconsin trainer, told a committee of regents today that Head Coach Clarence W. Spears had instructed him on several occasions to give gridiron players liquor.

Fallon, testifying in the regents' investigation into Wisconsin's muddled athletic department situation, said Spears asked him to give players a coffee-liquor stimulant in 1932 when Minnesota met the Badgers at Madison. The trainer said that was the first time in his experience he had been asked to administer liquor to athletes.

The incident occurred during Spears' first year at Wisconsin. Fallon said he mixed a pint of brandy with a gallon of coffee.

Before last year's Northwestern game, Fallon said he went to Spears' office and was told by the football coach:

"Bill, don't give them orange juice and sugar between halves anymore. Give them brandy and coffee, but don't let the fellow in the front of the line know about it."

Asked who was meant by the "front office," Fallon answered he assumed it meant Athletic Director Walter E. Meadwell.

Spears, who denied published reports he ordered whiskey given players, was expected to testify later.

"Before the 1933 Minnesota game Spears came to me," Fallon said, "and asked me if I had any whiskey. I said no, but told him I had some alcohol, about eight ounces of it. He told me to put that in the coffee."

Fallon offered his testimony to the committee investigating University athletic troubles after refusing at first to discuss at an open hearing contents of an affidavit he filed with the regents recently.

He returned after consulting with an attorney and was told by chairman Harold Wilkie that it would be a "good thing" if he made public what he knew.

Fallon said that five minutes before the Iowa game in 1933 he injected a local anesthetic into the broken finger of George Deaneovich, an end, under Spears' order.

Tony Popp, a fullback last year, was in the infirmary with two sprained ankles and a broken nose during practice one week, Fallon said, and quoted Spears as telling him:

"You get him (Popp) out of the hospital and get him out this afternoon."

Fallon testified a doctor at the infirmary told him Popp should not go out, but that he got him to the field on a promise he would bring him back that night.

In 1934, Harold Smith, a fullback, was in the infirmary, Fallon said, and Spears ordered him to "get Smith the hell out of there and get him out in a hurry."

Fallon was asked whether he thought it was improper to give a player a drug as in the instance of Deaneovich.

"I don't think any man should be copped up any more than a race horse should be," Fallon answered. He added there was danger of an infection.

Smiths Spill Chevs In Y.M. Cage League

Swifts Turn Back Merchants In Feature Game; CCC Wins From Lynnville

Their supposed feature game turning out to be a romp for the Smith Indians when the Chevies appeared without their champion scorer, George Wellborn, Y. M. C. A. basketball leaguers sat back without much interest until the Jacksonville Merchants and Swifts engaged in the final game which developed into a tight battle, Swifts winning in a final furious quarter. The CCC quintet turned in an impressive victory over the Lynnville A. C. club in the other game on the three game schedule.

Wellborn's failure to appear left the Chevies without their chief scoring ace, and Smith's led by Frank Smith, Jr., who tossed in 16 points, promptly put them down with a 39 to 20 margin.

The camp cagers, with Johns leading the shooting with 11 points, made a decided show of strength in three of the four quarters against the Lynnville team, running up a 38 to 10 score. The Camp quintet registered only one point in the third quarter, but began hitting the basket again in the final stanza to roll up their margin.

The Merchants sprung the big surprise when they rallied from a second quarter set-back to knot the count at 17 all as the final quarter opened, and then broke in front. A bucket by Wainwright, followed by one by Wagner left the Merchants in the lead, and DeSilva dropped in a free toss to boost the margin to two points. Clancy scored for the Packers, and Wainwright notched a free shot to put the Merchants in front by a point, but Clancy and Wagner put the game on ice for the Swifts entry with two buckets.

Frosty England is Victim of Fever

Will Be Away From His High Scoring Perry Team for Month

Perry—Forrest England, coach of Perry Pioneers, will be away from his high scoring team during the month of February due to a case of scarlet fever. The blow is especially severe at this time because his team had just begun to reach a high degree of smoothness.

To date the Perry record is 16 won and 3 lost. They have averaged over a point per minute for the season. The Pioneers were champions of the East Pike tournament. At this time they are located in third place in the Pike County conference, and have strong possibilities of sharing in the title.

It is hoped that England will be able to guide his cagers in the regional tournament early in March.

Southern Teachers Tackle Blueboys Saturday

Southern Teachers college, of Carbondale, will send the troupe of cagers to the fastest and slickest in the last December on their home floor for a game here Saturday night. Pictured above are Capt. Emery, forward, and Fulton, guards, who probably will be in the starting line-up.

Hitler Opens Winter Games With Traditional Speech as 80,000 Spectators Look On Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany. (AP)—The fourth winter Olympic games, drawing a record entry list of more than 1,000 competitors from 28 nations, were formally opened by Chancellor Hitler today.

A large and cosmopolitan crowd packed the ski stadium to watch the colorful parade of the nations and hear Reichsfuehrer speak the words that inaugurated an eleven-day carnival of international competition in skiing, speed skating, figure skating, bob-sledding and hockey.

From a winter sports viewpoint, weather conditions were perfect. So thick was the snow falling that the peaks of nearby mountain ranges were entirely obscured.

As each national delegation marched past Hitler with flag lowered, the Fuehrer gave the Nazi salute. Most of the competitors from foreign lands returned the salute, in kind, but the Americans were among those who did not.

Hitler spoke the words prescribed for the opening ceremony by the International Olympic Committee: "I proclaim open the winter Olympic games of Garmisch-Partenkirchen celebrating the fourth winter Olympiad of the modern era."

Simultaneously a German army band played the Olympic hymn, all church bells of Garmisch-Partenkirchen pealed the flames of the Olympic fire soared heavenward from the gigantic steel tower next to the ski jump, a signal division of the German navy hoisted the Olympic flag and salvoes of cannon shots thundered from the mountain heights, reverberating from valley to valley.

The German national anthem was played, whereupon, in rows of three, the Olympic teams, each preceded by its national flag and an ensign bearing the name of its nation, marched into the stadium.

Following the time-honored custom, the Greeks, as originators of the Olympic idea, came first. There, followed, in order of the German alphabet, the delegations from Australia to Vereingte Staaten Von Amerika (United States of America), and finally those of Germany, the host.

For America the honor of carrying the flag fell upon Rolf Mosen, veteran skier from Lake Placid, N. Y. Within each national delegation the order of precedence was as follows: delegates, military teams, skiers, skaters, ice hockey players, bobbers and curlers.

As each delegation clad in some distinctive winter sports garb, marched by the German chief of state and the Olympic officials, its standard bearer lowered his national flag, while a battery of German artillery on the Roehel mountain opposite fired a salute.

It was a stupor-inducing scene, on completion of the defile, the 28 standard bearers stood in a row, their national flags fluttering in the breeze and behind them at attention, column upon column of competitors.

Rockets in Fine Shape to Up Set Tiger Applegart With Team Showing Improvement

Probable Starters

Pos.	I.S.D.
Routt	Wells
Lair	Ottien
Magner	Baumann
Behrens	Lawrence
Lawrence	Amann
Balkan	Dhondt

Time—7:15 preliminary; 8:15 major game. Place—I. S. D. gym.

With Routt high's Rockets showing better form, and Illinois School for the Deaf crippled by the loss of two players, the Rockets are in an excellent position today to upset the I. S. D. basketball apogee when these two teams mingle for the second time tonight on the I. S. D. hardwoods. The two local clubs will have the center of the stage to themselves, Jacksonville high moving over to Mt. Pulaski tonight for another of the serious tests ahead of them before tournament time.

Encouraged by the showing his team made in the first half against Cathedral last Friday, and again on Saturday night against Winchester, Coach Wallace Baptist is looking for a lot of excitement tonight. He said yesterday he probably would re-arrange his line-up somewhat for the game, but anticipated that he would use the same combination that appeared in those games.

Meanwhile, Coach S. Robey Burns was striving to bring a more smooth unit out of his squad as the result of losing Rajski and Wildrich, both regulars, for the remainder of the season.

Ottien, one of the lads who represented the United States at the Deaf Olympics games in London last summer, and Julius Dhondt, guard, have been moved up to the varsity position. They gave a good account of themselves in Wednesday night's game with Franklin, but the Tiger offense failed to click as impressively as it did when the Tigers handed Routt a 33 to 28 defeat late in January.

All three local teams will show at home Saturday night. Pittsfield meeting Jacksonville high in a double header, McCooey, of Hannibal, tangling with Routt, and I. S. D. meeting Mt. Sterling, Jacksonville high freshmen and sophomore players and Routt freshmen and sophomore cagers will meet in the first game of the Saturday night card at Routt at seven p. m.

Only one game is carded between I. S. D. and Mt. Sterling.

Coach Frank Walker will take active charge of the Crimsons for the first time in a week when he leads the cagers to Mt. Pulaski tonight. The squad has talked little but Mt. Pulaski all week, and is keyed up for the big battle of the season.

The Crimsons line-up is intact for the invasion of the Hilltopper court. Hamm, Lukeman and Alb Ketter, forwards, George Hamilton, center, George Moxon and John Bellati, guards, probably will be the starting line-up.

A large number of high school students are planning to defy the slippery roads to make the trip to the Logan county basketball center.

SANITATION BOON TO PROSPECTS FOR 1936 APPLE CROP

Urbana, Ill.—Illinois' apple crop, averaging almost 2½ million dollars a year to date, apparently has weathered the record cold snaps in good shape. Prospects which growers now have can be protected through strict orchard sanitation to keep down injury that otherwise would be done by a score of insects, diseases and rodents, according to a new circular just issued by the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

The new aid to lower cost production of higher quality fruit, "Practical Sanitation for Apple Orchards," was compiled by M. D. Farrar and S. C. Chandler, entomologists of the Illinois State Natural History Survey, and H. W. Anderson and V. W. Kelley, of the college's division of pomology.

Millions of dollars now spent for spray materials to control orchard insects and diseases may be wasted or only partially effective unless backed up by sound orchard sanitation, the circular points out.

Orchard sanitation starts with pruning and should include the cutting out of all dead twigs and limbs, split branches, punky wood, cankers and old pruning stubs, the authors say. Pruning should be done closely and smoothly, and the larger wounds covered with wood-preserving paint. All prunings should be collected and burned.

Scraping away the rough bark of old trees, followed by the burning of all scrapings, also is recommended. Placing chemically-treated hands on trunks of scraped trees aids sanitation by controlling codling-moth larvae.

Keeping orchards free of excessive weeds, avoiding coarse mulching materials and clipping cover crops to prevent rank stem growth are further boons to sanitation.

Cleaning up debris of all kinds and removing all diseased and cull fruit promptly can not be neglected if the toll of insects and diseases is to be kept down, the circular points out.

Two additional planks in orchard sanitation are the screening of packing sheds so that they will be tight against codling moths and the dipping of all orchard crates now kept in screened sheds in order to destroy larvae.

Cathedral Becomes Catholic Favorite

Have Won 14 Out of 15 Starts in Games This Season; Have Veterans

Decatur—Cathedral High school of Springfield, with one of the most outstanding records of any prep basketball team in Illinois, ranks as the favorite to win the Catholic championship when 16 schools gather here February 22, 23 and March 1 for the ninth annual tournament.

Beaten but once in 15 starts, the Cathedral team, under the tutelage of Don Anderson, St. Viator graduate, already has won nine victories in the Illinois Catholic Conference and is expected to wind up on top of the field later this month.

The Cyclones won 10 straight games earlier this season before being stopped by Benid, newly crowned Macoupin County Champions, in a 16 to 15 battle at Benid. In that streak both Springfield and Peoria, the two teams in the state are on Cathedral's schedule and already the Springfield five has beaten Quincy Academy twice, Routh of Jacksonville twice, Spaulding of Peoria twice and St. Teresa of Decatur twice. Witt, Easton, Virden, Trinity of Bloomington are other schools which have been defeated.

A group of veteran players, experienced and rugged, is the principal reason the Cyclones are the Catholic favorite. John Miller, Rich Holmes, Joe Kohorst and Rich Brooks are four who played last season. This year is the third on the squad for Rich Brooks and Miller.

Pairings for the meet will not be announced until February 16 at which time the complete schedule and officials will be named. It is expected that four officials for the major tournament and two for the consolation meet will be used. The consolation will be run off in connection with the major meet. First round losers will be matched against each other with the survivor receiving a trophy. Corpus Christi of Galveston won that division last year.

Nebo Defeats Barry In Pike Loop Game

Nebo, Feb. 6—Keeping calm during a furious fourth quarter, Nebo high tonight upset Barry in a Pike county conference basketball game 31 to 28. Barry was playing for the first time under the coaching of Cullen Sweet, who recently replaced Coach Poppenhager, and had the services of its center Johnson, for the last time.

Ped by N. Franklin, who tossed in 14 points, Nebo stayed off a Barry rally in the last few minutes of the game after leading most of the way. The score was close all the way. Nebo reserves won the curtain raiser from the Barry reserves by a 26-22 score.

Flush Kidneys

of poisons and stop getting up at night

Having tested "Adrenaline" in thousands of cases at the Insular Hotel, Baltimore, Md., I have distributed the latest and best "Drug Trade" book, "Adrenaline," which is the most important of the "Drug Trade" books. I now recommend for the relief of many kidney ailments, "Adrenaline," which is a powerful diuretic, and relieves irritation.

DR. V. M. PIERCE, who has irregular sleep, depression, aches, pains, dizziness, will find this stimulant diuretic beneficial in flushing the kidneys, dilating and relieving irritation.

Taking a cup of hot water and Dr. Pierce's Adrenaline after every meal should bring remarkably quick improvement.

OLD EQUIPMENT KEPT IN LAFAYETTE BEING MOVED INTO GARAGE

WPA workers under supervision of Ed Ferguson, general utility man for the city school system, have been busy the past two days moving equipment which has been stored in the Lafayette building. The furniture is being stored in a neighboring garage. It is old type equipment that is no longer in use.

This work is being done to get the building clear in preparation for the order to vacate, which is expected to come from the government at any time. School authorities are so sure the building project will be authorized that they are making these preparations so that no time will be lost in getting out of the old structure.

Frankhouse Goes to Dodgers for 2 Men

Stengel Completes Deal with Boston Bees to Get Ahead of Terry

New York.—(P)—After dickering with almost everybody in the National League, Manager Casey Stengel of the Brooklyn Dodgers swung a deal today with the Boston Bees for Fred Frankhouse, veteran right-handed pitcher.

Beating several rival managers to the punch, including Bill Terry of the Giants, Stengel obtained Frankhouse in exchange for two youthful performers—Johnny Babich, California right-hander, and Gene Moore, Texan who developed outfielding promise in the Cardinal "chain-store" system.

Frankhouse, at 31, has been in the majors nine seasons and with the Boston club since 1930. He was on the National League all-star team in 1934, when he won 17 games and led 9 with an ordinary team, and is rated one of the steadier right-handers in the circuit.

Last year, the worst Boston Nationals ever experienced, Frankhouse was credited with 11 of the club's 28 victories. He lost 15 games.

Frankhouse came to Brooklyn in the footsteps of Ed Brandt, big Boston southpaw, obtained along with Randy Moore earlier in the winter in exchange for a quartet of Dodgers—Al Lopez, Tony Cuccinello, Bobby Reis, and Ray Benge. Brandt and Frankhouse have been the backbone of the Boston pitching staff for a number of years.

In parting with Babich, the Dodgers wrote off an expensive experiment. They gave two pitchers, a catcher, and $30,000 in cash for the young hurler who won 20 games in 1933 for the San Francisco Missions and was rated a sensation when he joined Brooklyn in mid-season of 1934. But Johnny apparently "cooled off." Last season he appeared in 37 games, won 7 and lost 14.

Moore was farmed to Rochester in the International League last year. He batted .324 with Rochester in 133 games.

The Dodgers also received the signed contract of Freddy Lindstrom, who was released unconditionally by the Chicago Cubs.

Wemple Estate to Go to Children Of Former Banker

Son Will Be Executor of the Estate; Directs That Bonds Be Bought

Specific instructions for the settlement of his estate, which will be shared by his children and heirs at law, are made in the will of the late Edward Wemple of Waverly. The will of Mr. Wemple, who was a former mayor and retired banker of Waverly, was filed for probate Thursday at the office of County Clerk Fred Brockhouse.

The testator named his son, Clarence C. Wemple, to serve as executor of the estate, providing a payment of $500 for these services.

The following provisions are set forth in the document:

"It is my will that all of my personal property shall be converted to United States bond and credits to the amount of my estate in bank without haste or unnecessary procedure on the part of my executor, at no time accumulating to said account or in United States bonds more than thirty thousand dollars, without making an equal division among my said children and applying one-half of each child's share of any division on his or her indebtedness of my estate as credit."

"It is my will that each of my said children shall receive their own note or notes made by them to me as so much of their part of my estate already received without computing any interest thereon."

"It is my will that my real estate shall be controlled by my executor in the same manner as it has been controlled by myself as near as can be done in his ability in a judicious and prudent manner until it may be sold to the best advantage of my estate, either at public or private sale, at all times giving each of my children, including my executor, an opportunity to become a purchaser. It is however provided that in case my real estate can be agreeably divided among my said children then it need not be sold. The net proceeds of all my property both personal and real estate shall be equally divided among my heirs and that each shall have an equal share, either by a mutual agreement to divide my real estate or from a result of the sale at public or private sale, and any money or credits resulting from the sale of real estate shall be credited and disbursed in the same manner as my personal property."

"It is my will that all of my real estate shall be disposed of by my executor as herein directed within five years time from the date of my death, and that my estate shall be settled as soon as practical."

Mr. Wemple's will was made January 6, 1926, witnessed by R. Elter and Avis McMahon.

County Recreation Program of WPA to Go Forward Soon

Director Fred Darr on Job After Illness; Ten Towns Are Ready for Work

The WPA recreational program for the county will go forward within a short time. Fred Darr, county director of recreation, who has been ill at his home the past two weeks, is back on the job and expects to push the program in several communities.

Before he was taken ill, Mr. Darr made contacts with some ten communities in the county, and all signified their willingness to proceed with a program of recreational activities. A room attendant and a janitor would be stationed in each center, and WPA workers from the county office would direct the program.

At Meredosia and Murrayville the town hall is to be the recreation center. Conditions in both communities are much the same, and similar programs are being planned. The work includes instruction in various handicrafts and supervised social activities.

In Shadow of Electric Chair

During the trip from Goshen, N. Y., to Ossining, Mrs. Dorothy Sherwood smiled sadly. Then in an instant terror clouded the smile—the grim walls of Sing Sing prison's death house loomed before her. Fear written in every feature, the former Salvation Army lassie and burlesque dancer huddled into her collar as she takes a farewell look at the wallless world. She was sentenced to death for the mercy murder of her starving baby son.

Mother's Struggle To Obtain Food Is Told By Officials

Crosses Ice-Filled River And Thru Twelve Miles Of Snow For Aid

Idaho Falls, Ida., Feb. 6.—(P)—A mother's struggle across an ice-filled river and through 12 miles of snow drifts to obtain food for her sick husband and her 10 children was disclosed today in accounts from the Idaho bad lands.

The mother, Mrs. Thomas Strombaugh reached Salmon City half-frozen. A supply of food was sent immediately to the family, marooned on an island in the Salmon river.

The Strombaughs' only means of contact with the shore is a cable, propped by hand across a suspension bridge.

Shortly after Strombaugh fell ill several days ago, the cable was loosened by the wind and slipped to a point midway between the island and the mainland.

When the food supply dwindled, Mrs. Strombaugh, none too heavily clad, started across the floating ice, jumping from one ice cake to another.

After several close escapes, she reached the cage and pushed it ahead of her to the other shore.

Then her clothing drenched with icy water, she trudged the 12 miles through snow to Salmon City.

Will Set New Date For Execution Of Bruno Hauptmann

Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Trenchard III At His Home

By Samuel G. Blackman
Associated Press Staff Writer
Trenton, N. J., Feb. 6.—(P)—Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Trenchard, who sentenced Bruno Richard Hauptmann to death in the electric chair for the Lindbergh baby kidnap murder, may set a new execution date from his sick bed.

The 72-year-old jurist, weakened by the long Hauptmann trial, was ill the day with a neck gland infection. His physician said he could not return to his office for at least two weeks—during which time Hauptmann's reprieve expires. The attorney general's office is expected to request the new death warrant shortly after February 15.

If Justice Trenchard is unable to sign the document any judge of the Hunterdon county over and terminer court may do so.

Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, state police superintendent, tonight prepared the first of the weekly reports requested by Governor Harold G. Hoffman in reopening investigation of the case. Col. Schwarzkopf said he would include in his report letters from the Federal Bureau of Investigation and New York City police, promising co-operation.

In Washington, Attorney General Homer S. Cummings said he would not resign "G-Men" to further investigation, but added that facilities of the bureau of investigation would be available to those working on the case.

Cummings said "nothing of any importance has happened in the Lindbergh case since Hauptmann's arrest" and repeated his opinion, expressed in October, 1934, that so far as his department was concerned, the case was closed.

Charge Stateville Guard Aided "Con" To Escape Prison

Warrant Is Issued For Homer Talley Who Took Prisoner To Chicago

Joliet, Ill., Feb. 6.—(P)—A warrant charging him with aiding in the escape of John Floss from the Stateville prison honor farm yesterday was served on Homer Talley, 38, a prison guard.

Talley was locked up in the Will county jail, but before he had substantially changed his story of the circumstances which led up to Floss' escape, he was released.

State's Attorney Will R. McCabe stated Talley told him he drove Floss, a convicted robber, to Chicago to obtain some money. McCabe said Talley protested he had no idea that his prisoner-companion would escape.

An earlier story credited to Talley was that Floss threatened him with the same kind of death that Richard Loeb suffered in the prison last week unless he took him to Chicago.

The new version of the escape, which Talley said was brought out in questioning today, was that Talley drove Floss to Chicago after the latter promised to "say a good word" for him with the powerful gang, McCabe said the "gang" was a group of convicts which reputedly had influence behind the bars.

McCabe said that Talley told him he hoped by favoring Floss to gain a promotion—through the influence of the "powerhouse gang."

"So I drove Floss to 518 West Van Buren street in Chicago," Talley was quoted by McCabe as saying. "I waited outside for 30 or 40 minutes, but Floss didn't come back. Finally, I realized I had been hoodwinked."

Pope Spends 14th Anniversary Today

Reads Messages from Many Admirers During Day

Vatican City.—(P)—Pope Pius XI, dedicating his pontificate to peace, observed the 14th anniversary of his election to the throne of St. Peter today amid alarms of war.

The 78-year-old pontiff passed the day in comparative quiet. He devoted most of it to reading hundreds of messages of congratulation which came to him from virtually all the world.

His holiness granted a private audience to Auxiliary Bishop William B. O'Brien of Chicago.

Otherwise, in accordance with his practice of avoiding every unnecessary strain, he took no special notice of the occasion.

$7,500,000 Are Appropriated For Illinois Relief

State Senate Takes Action At Midnight Session By 37 To One Vote

Springfield, Feb. 6.—(P)—The Senate in a midnight session tonight passed a bill appropriating $7,500,000 for relief purposes, thus averting a relief crisis until May 1.

The bill provided funds to supplement the sales tax for February, March and April.

The vote was 37 to one. The measure now goes to the governor.

By a vote of 37 to 0 (zero) the Senate also sent to the governor a measure to abolish the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission on May 1.

Both measures passed the House Wednesday.

Senator L. O. Williams, Clinton democrat, the governor's spokesman in the Senate, was the only member to vote against the appropriation bill and he did not vote on the IERC repealer.

Without the appropriation, the IERC has said it would be necessary to shut down all relief stations Feb. 15. The appropriation would be from the general revenue fund, although Governor Horner has said there was no surplus there.

The large plane settled to a perfect landing after air station officials turned on the flood lights upon receiving a telephone call from the airline's office at Atlanta asking that a lookout be kept.

Aboard were four passengers, a hostess and two pilots.

The airliner had been missing for several hours.

The crew stood by awaiting orders. Naval air station officials said they could repair the beam receiver, the mechanism which permits the plane to follow a radio beam.

Austria And War Are Discussed At B. P. W. C. Meeting

Europeans Do Not Want War
Conflict Says Dr. Paul Neureiter

"Will Austria pull the trigger?" was the theme of an interesting address made at the Peacock Inn, at last night's meeting of the local Business and Professional Woman's club, by Dr. Paul Neureiter of the chemistry department of the Western Illinois State Teachers College at Macomb.

Dr. Neureiter, who is a native of Austria, received his doctor's degree from the University of Vienna and came to America in 1927.

Mrs. Opal Tillman, chairman of the international relations committee, of the club, was in charge of the program. Prof. Fred Meyers, accompanied by Guy Snell of the Illinois School for the Blind, played two violin solos, "Traumerei" by Schuman and "Harlequin" composed by Mr. Meyers.

Dr. Neureiter emphasized the fact that the task at hand is to convert a neighborhood of nations into a real brotherhood. We are all drawn inevitably into a stream of international affairs as we live in an interdependent world.

In considering the Ethiopian affair, Dr. Neureiter asked the question, "Is this to be the prelude of world wide conflagration? There is an Ethiopian in the wood pile—and that Ethiopian is Austria. The gun is really cocked, but nothing has happened yet because the Europeans do not want war—they are actually trembling at any suggestion of it. The League of Nations has failed because it is not supported by real friendliness and understanding of the masses of people. While dark clouds are threatening Europe, the peace movement will go on and will eventually be victorious."

Dr. Neureiter gave a most dramatic picture of Austria during the World War. He said the Austrians are not aggressive but are merely victims of a coincidence of circumstance. "Austria is the 'percussion cap' of a charged Europe. The southeast corner of Europe is composed of fourteen nationalities of their own race. For the last four hundred years, these nationalities have been under the rule of the Turkish Empire and the Austrian Empire. The real conflagration began when these nations realized they were oppressed. In 1912 they became free from the Turkish Empire and soon after, the Arch-Duke of Austria was assassinated to give freedom to these nationalities still under the Austrian crown. In 1918, the Austrian Empire was destroyed, and Austria, four hundred of nationalities, learned the lesson of liberty—but not

Poultry and Eggs Profitable Produce

Raising Chickens for early marketing is usually a profitable venture. True, it requires some work, but it pays. To get the best out of it, an early start should be made.

Maintaining flocks for the production of eggs also is profitable, and this too requires care and work in order to produce the egg that brings the better prices.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JULIA CRAIG, secretary to GEORGE WOODFORD lawyer, is ambitious to become a night club singer. Because of this she quarrels with PETER KEMP young lawyer who is in love with her. Julia shares an apartment with ANNY SANDERS.

Woodford gives a party and asks Julia to come as singer. Others in the party include CINTRA LEE, dancer; MAX JOSEPH, widow; HUGO NASH and ROYAL NESBITT.

"the door behind him. "Of course I should have knocked." Garland rose to his feet, reddening furiously. "It's quite all right, Tom. I was just trying to explain things to Julia."

"So I see." "She found out that you backed the club."

"Payson's jaw dropped and his eyes searched Julia's face. "Who told you that?"

"I happened to overhear it," she told him quietly. "Some of your friends at one of the tables out there."

Tom Payson grinned amiably. "I'd like to know how they found it out. I was hoping to keep it a secret."

But his casualness failed to impress Julia; and Garland, his face still crimson, blurted out that he had to get out on the floor "to see how things are going." When the door closed behind him, Payson turned to Julia.

"I rather that Garland was making love to you." She did not answer, and he went on: "Are you in love with him, Julia?"

"No. . . ."

He was silent a moment, then walked over and took her hands, drew Julia to her feet. "Why so sad, darling? Why—why, this ought to be the happiest night in our life!"

"It was," Julia said, "until I walked by that table."

"What do you care what people say?" She shook her head, withdrew her hands from his. "It's not that, Tom. But I felt I was making good on my own. Now I discover that it was your money that gave me my chance—it was your money that built me up as Nadine White, provided even the setting."

"It had to be somebody's money. These things don't just happen. If Garland had been stronger financially he'd have done the whole thing himself. And anyhow," he added, "it was you and Garland who did everything. The money was the small part, after all."

He walked to the door. "I'll wait outside until you've changed. Then I want you to join me. There are some friends of mine who want to meet you."

Julia hesitated. "I'm afraid I can't, Tom. Amy Sanders is out there with a friend of hers, and—" "Then they can join us, too. I'll give you just five minutes."

THERE was no argument against Tom's winning smile. As she changed from her white gown into a stunningly plain black she reviewed in her mind what Garland and Payson had said. Perhaps after all, it made no difference that it was Payson's money which had created an opportunity for her. And yet . . .

Nervously Julia took up a cigarette, lighted it, and inhaled deeply—as if the smoke might somehow purge her mind of disturbing thoughts. Then, after a final glance in the mirror, she left the dressing room and faced Tom Payson with a brave smile.

"Three minutes!" she laughed. "When they reached the big male room of the club Julia was recognized at once, and a wave of applause spread quickly. "Hurry," she whispered to Payson, "let's sit down!" But just then the operator of the spotlights, relentless and alert, shot down a glare which made hiding an impossibility. He followed Payson and Julia with the bright beam until they reached the table which was Payson's destination.

As the light switched off, Julia recognized with a start that it was the same table from which she'd heard the snatch of conversation. She did not know which were the two women who had unwittingly informed her—but she noticed with sinking heart that all the women at the table were wearing . . .

With frank and open interest, Tom's introductions were swift and easy, but she was relieved when he had finished.

"Now," he said, "I'll find Amy and her friend if you'll excuse me." In Tom's absence a smooth dark girl slid into his chair. "I'm Theresa Davis," she said. "We met each other in that group introduction Tom staged—but one can't count those. You were very good tonight."

"Thank you. . . ."

"We all think it's grand that Tom's taken a fancy to you," the Davis girl went on. "Of course, we're all very fond of him."

"I—I should think you would be."

Theresa Davis laughed. "It's quite a trial, you know. I mean to his friends. One never knows what he's going to do next. He's—"

she made a quick gesture, her scarlet nails flashing. "well, Tom is quite and idealistic. He's always helping along some girl who works in a shop or a—clear counter or something." She laughed indulgently. "We're pleased he's promoted himself to a night club singer."

"Do you really consider it a promotion?" asked Julia.

"Indeed, yes." The girl seemed surprised. "We can at least accept a night club singer."

Julia shivered back her chair quickly and got to her feet. "Would you excuse me, Miss Davis? I think I'll save you the trouble of accepting me."

With that she was gone, hurried through the crowded room, her eyes flitting with angry tears. Half-way to the lobby she met Payson.

"I don't seem to be able to find your friend, Julia."

"It's quite all right, Tom. I'm going home."

"But, Julia! What's wrong?" "Nothing. I'm—I'm just going home."

He held her arm. "I'm going with you, then."

"No," Julia said. "I'd rather you wouldn't. . . please."

Outside she entered a taxi and was soon before the towering apartment which the White Club had made possible for her and Amy. As she entered the elevator she was startled to see Cintra Lee.

"Why . . . Cintra!" "I'm here for a reason," Cintra Lee said. "I want to know if you have any idea what happened to Royal Nesbitt."

GOVERNOR'S veto message. At that time Gov. John M. Palmer was overridden on a bill to authorize the city of Quincy to increase its indebtedness.

In the House, the margin against the governor yesterday was 123 to 10. As a result, the companion bill to the old age pension measure became a law without Mr. Horner's approval.
